Garden Checklist

1. June is an ideal month to put in dichondra, because this dense ground-cover thrives in heat. For quickest coverage, buy dichondra in flats and divide into small clumps. Plant as close together as the C.A.N. nurseryman recommends for the total area you wish to cover.
2. Fuchsias planted now in hanging baskets will provide decorative relief this summer for porches and patios. Two or three plants to a basket offer best show of colors.
3. Remove side branches from tomato plants to conserve plant strength for the fruit on main stem.
4. Cut off the old flowering spikes of delphinium, and they'll bloom again in the fall.
5. Cushion chrysanthemum plants now (from flats) will make a low-growing, early-blooming, gay summer to fall border. Keep the new plants well-watered and shaded from hottest sun until established.
